Art Unit: 1714

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1-7, 9, and 21-23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by JP 06-264035 Shinji et al. (Abstract provided by applicant and translation provided referenced below).

Shinji discloses the instantly claimed invention at the abstract supplied by the applicant and the following sections of the provided translation; DETAILED DESCRIPTION, sections [0005]-[0007] which encompasses the instantly claimed amounts and ingredients of claims 1-2. The polyimides are not crosslinked and are therefore expected to have the solubility of the instant claims 3-5. The polyimides of the reference are those of the instant claims 6-7. See sections [0005] of DETAILED DESCRIPTION describing the polyimide, and sections [0010]-[0020]. The epoxies of sections [0034]-[0035] appear to fall within the scope of the instant claim 9.

4. Claims 1-9 and 21-23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over JP 06-264035 Shinji et al. (Abstract provided by applicant and translation provided referenced below).

Shinji discloses the instantly claimed invention at the abstract supplied by the applicant and the following sections of the provided translation; DETAILED DESCRIPTION, sections [0005]-[0007] which encompasses the instantly claimed amounts and ingredients of claims 1-2. The polyimides are not crosslinked and are therefore expected to have the solubility of the instant claims 3-5. The polyimides of the reference are those of the instant claims 6-7. See sections [0005] of DETAILED DESCRIPTION describing the polyimide, and sections [0010]-[0020]. The epoxies of sections [0034]-[0035] appear to fall within the scope of the instant claim 9.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the instant invention to use the instantly claimed amounts of ingredients and ingredient combinations in the compositions and articles of Shinji because these amounts of ingredients and ingredient combinations are encompassed by Shinji and would have been expected to give the properties described by Shinji. The applicant has not demonstrated unexpected results over Shinji in a manner commensurate in scope with the disclosure of Shinji and the instant claims.

5. Claims 10-20 are allowable over the prior art. US Pat. No. 5639808 Coggio et al. is representative of the closest prior art but does not disclose the inventions of the instant claims 10-20 nor is proper motivation seen to modify the prior art considered into the instantly claimed invention.

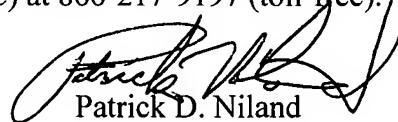

6. Claim 8 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

The prior art does not disclose phenol resins having all of the required moieties in the instantly claimed invention nor provide motivation to use such phenol resins in the instantly claimed invention.

7. Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Patrick D. Niland whose telephone number is 571-272-1121. The examiner can normally be reached on Monday to Thursday from 10 to 5.
